The Angry Blue Planet

The Bay Area gets us to think big and globally now

The Chronicle's recent story on global warming has left Bay area artists (see front, page 10) and general mind boggled. Locals wonder: How can we, who live in a relatively safe coastal neighborhood, possibly be affected? What can we do? The Bay Area's artists are responding in a variety of ways. Some are creating works that are both beautiful and thought-provoking. Others are creating works that are both beautiful and thought-provoking. Others are creating works that are both beautiful and thought-provoking.

newspapers are off the street by 11:30 a.m. and international flights arrive at least a couple of hours before departure. And most will have excellent connections to other, distant points.

Some airlines fly only on a given day every two weeks. Therefore, departure dates being offered almost always reflect current rates based on different assumptions that the average person cannot verify. It is possible, though, to check the flight, say, by contacting a travel agent, but that may be as good as giving up. There have been, for example, instances where airlines' flight schedules, by changing last minute, have caused others to lose their jobs. In fact, the airlines' last-minute cancellations are

1. Advertisement: The advertisement is a full-page spread in the Los Angeles Times, dated 1998. It features a large, bold headline at the top: "THE NEW YORK TIMES". Below the headline, there is a sub-headline: "A NEW YORK TIMES". The main body of the advertisement contains several paragraphs of text, which appear to be a mix of news and opinion pieces. The text is arranged in a standard newspaper layout, with columns and a clear hierarchy of information. The overall tone of the advertisement is serious and informative.

It's popular Broadband's biggest selling point, especially when it comes to streaming entertainment online and other online services, is its ability to deliver data at much faster rates than dial-up. And that's why it's so popular. Streaming video, downloading large files, and other data-intensive activities are much easier to do with broadband. And that's why it's so popular. The 107 United Nations satellites stationed at 107 sites along the Thai-Lao border, which could not penetrate the dense jungle, were replaced with 107 ground-based radar stations. The satellites were used to find outposts and to monitor the movement and concentration of personnel in 10- to 15-mile squares. The radar stations, however, could not tell the difference between a person and a tree, and they were not as accurate as the satellites. They were also more expensive and required more maintenance. Abstract The authors examined the effects of a 12-week, 1000 kcal/day energy-restricted diet on the body composition and metabolic profile of 10 obese women. The diet was composed of 25% protein, 40% carbohydrate, and 35% fat. The subjects lost 10.5% of their initial body weight, and the mean body fat percentage decreased from 32.1% to 28.1%. The mean resting metabolic rate (RMR) increased from 1440 to 1500 kcal/day. The mean resting energy expenditure (REE) increased from 1440 to 1500 kcal/day. The mean resting energy expenditure (REE) increased from 1440 to 1500 kcal/day. The mean resting energy expenditure (REE) increased from 1440 to 1500 kcal/day.

THE HISTORY OF THE "HOT" JEWELRY MARKET
The history of men's jewelry is filled with controversy but undeniably successful efforts to bring it into vogue are credited to designers and other enthusiasts. Victorio Boldetti is an Italian-born jewelry designer based in New York City who has been pioneering men's jewelry for decades. He says that men's jewelry was relatively unknown until the late 1960s, when he started his company, which he founded in partnership with his brother, Giovanni, in 1970. He says that men's jewelry was not popular until the late 1960s, when he started his company, which he founded in partnership with his brother, Giovanni, in 1970.
